The heel work started poorly but improved to a very standard. The score could be improved by the use of slightly longer lead eliminating the unnecessary tightening of the lead as a result of the dog not maintaining a consistent heel position.

The recall was excellent showing an outstanding example of the standard required for the class.

The stay exercises were well performed with the dog being relaxed and steady.

The dog struggled to meet the standard required with it being easily distracted and failing to maintain a good heel position relative to the handler.

The dog was uncertain and moved 3 of its feet while being examined.

The recall was at an excellent pace but there needs to be improvement in the positioning when working around the handler.

The retrieve was at a good pace and showed confidence in the exercise.

The heel work good, the dog was slow into position but with an excellent change of pace.

The dog was uncertain and moved 3 of its feet during the exercise.

The recall was at an excellent pace however, the finish was far too slow.

While within the allowed limits the movement with the change of position needs improvement through confidence, as the dog moves into the next class.

The heel work requires further work. The dog missed positions, failed to maintain a good heel position as it was not working in partnership with the handler.

The handler needs to be more aware of their positioning when returning to the dog in the stand for examination.

While the recall pace was good, the dog failed to meet the exercise requirements by anticipating the finish and then failing to sit.

The retrieve was at a good pace but the dog failed to sit when returning with the dumbbell.

Sire *Ch Astasia Heico A.Z.

Dam *Adelora Ulytra Sexy A.Z.

The dog's pace was slow at times leading to poor positioning and lack of teamwork.

The stand for examination was steady.

The recall was not completed as the dog was distracted and showed a lack of desire to work for the handler.

The dog was slow when completing the change of position.

GENERAL COMMENTS

Throughout the class there was a lack of ability to work with distractions, suggesting stability under pressure is lacking from the training regimes placing extra pressure on handlers.

The heel work was very good with the dog maintaining excellent position and showing good pace in all three speeds. Handling was of a good standard but needs to be smoother, exhibiting greater confidence.

The recall was of a very good standard for the class with the dog showing excellent pace and good positioning.

The retrieve exercises were of a good standard but there needs to be improvement in the work done by the dog in positions around the handler such as sitting in front and the finishes. The handler crowded the jump restricting the dog's movement over the jump.

The positions on command exercise, was good with some work required on the dog's positioning.

The heel work was of a good standard but needs improvement in the speed into positions and positioning in the changes of pace needs to be improved.

The recall was of a good pace, but the positioning needs to be improved.

The retrieve exercises were well performed but there is a need to improve positioning.

The down stay needs to be worked on further with the dog showing signs of being time wise, by breaking position with less than 10 seconds remaining.

The heel work was of a very good standard although a position was missed and the speed into position could be improved. The handler and dog performed well together responding to each other well.

The recall was at an excellent pace and some minor positioning errors spoilt the total performance.

The retrieves were well performed at a good pace but some minor positioning, together with the need for the dog to hold the dumbbell more securely until commanded to surrender detracted from the performance.

The broad jump was well performed other than for a slightly crooked jump.
